FLAVOR OF THE MONTH JULY

Ouch, that hurts! Record warm temperatures in February and two weeks into March caused peach trees in South Carolina to be in full bloom when a devastating frost hit on March 15th. Three days of freezing conditions with temperatures in the teens and low twenties destroyed 90% of the peach crop. That hurts our customers. Limited supply has increased the price on their favorite—Big Smile peaches. It hurts growers, who had a similar freeze in 2007. And it hurt migrant workers; lack of work forced many of them to return home. But keep smiling. The peaches are as juicy and delicious as always. And our local peaches are abundant and will be ripe in a few weeks.
