They set their goal, then a key marketing opportunity vanished. At the beginning of last year, Chris Russell and his Meat Department team at our Walnut Creek store set their 2020 sales goal for Uncle Mike's Meat Snacks. They aimed high, based on the strategy of sampling. Sampling works when product taste exceeds expectation, and Uncle Mike's excels in this. But sampling is still second to customer raving. Then the pandemic eliminated sampling. Chris's team was left with "stacking it high and watching it fly" and factory-direct pricing. The true fans—the ravers—showed up, buying more per customer. Chris trounced his previous year's sales with a 22% gain. Congratulations Chris and team! Congratulations Uncle Mike's fans!
