FLAVOR OF THE MONTH JULY
Blueberry

The vacation cabin we stayed in at Pigeon Forge, TN was littered with signs starting with the word DON'T. "Hmmm," we thought, "not very welcoming." One sign, however, needed to start with DON'T—DON'T FEED THE BEARS! Bears are cute and bears in the wild, even cuter. A trophy for some vacationers is a bear-selfie photo, and the easiest way to get the bear into the photo is with food—not the smartest way, just the easiest. Bears that depend on humans for nutrition on average live only seven years, less than half the normal fifteen-year lifespan of bears in the wild. Bears have their environment; we have our own. Nature is better balanced if we keep the two separate.
