They were giants, not in physicality but in vision. Peter Dauwalder, 84, of Bunker Hill Cheese in Berlin, and Jay Lehman, 91, founder of Lehman's Hardware in Kidron, OH, both recently passed away. Many decades ago, each man had a vision that people would travel hours to visit his store. Peter's passion was cheese and Jay's was hardware, but neither was content with operating just another store selling cheese or hardware. Both made their stores and product offerings so special that folks couldn't help but talk about them and return, often bringing friends. Today, the industry born of their vision includes furniture, hotels, and food. You built it, Peter and Jay, and they did come. Rest in peace.
