FALL MUMS
ARRIVING THIS WEEK

Designed to attract, they do their job well. Flowers draw birds and insects, providing a win-win that feeds insects as flowers are pollinated. But flowers also attract us humans and provide things necessary in our lives. A bed of spectacular blooms is the satisfying outpouring of someone's creativity, and it's also a feast for all of us who hunger for beauty. Thus flowers also reduce stress, whether by the expression of creativity or by the appreciation of the splendor of form and color. The flower-growing season wraps up with Chrysanthemums, arriving late in the season because they need longer and cooler nights to bloom. Late, but just as beautiful. Beauty, inspiration, and peace. Win! Win! Win!
